

Safeguarding Children and Young People - A Shared Responsibility

Target audience

This course is for practitioners (including volunteers) who either work in a role that has significant contact with children and young people or are the designated safeguarding lead for their organisation and therefore would be expected to contribute to assessing, planning and intervening where there are safeguarding concerns.

Course Pre-requisite

Participants must have already completed some form of basic child protection training or our 'Awareness of Child Abuse and Neglect' e-learning package.

Course Aim

This course will give participants the opportunity to focus on the issues and practicalities of working together, applying relevant national and local guidance and sharing decision making.

This course aims to develop knowledge and understanding of how to work together effectively to safeguard children where there is risk or unmet need.

It will focus on the procedures in place in Bradford to support effective multi-agency working and decision making keeping the child at centre of the system.

Learning outcomes

By the end of the course participants will

- Recognise the differences and similarities of the roles and responsibilities of a range practitioners
- Understand the importance of information sharing , and making appropriate clear and detailed referrals using the Multi-Agency Threshold of Need guidance
- Recognise the need for shared decision making and know how to challenge when working together
- Have the opportunity to apply the Signs of safety approach to the safeguarding process
