

Safeguarding Week

It's everybody's business

Vulnerable Intelligence – How people with autism can be exploited

Friday 29 June 2018

10.30-12.00

Margaret McMillan Tower, BD1 1NN

Target Audience

Social care health support workers, educators, police, parents and carers.

Presenters

David Newell and Susan Dunn, Specialist Autism Services

Details

This session will examine how those individuals with autism, particularly those Asperger's syndrome, while often presenting with great intelligence and confidence, but when confronted with certain aspects of the confusing neuro-typical world, can be vulnerable and in some instances, lead to exploitation.

To book

Ring or e-mail David Newell on david.newell@specialistautismservices.org or 01274 789789